

Brett Halliday has worked for Michael Hill for 27 years. Joining the organisation in its infancy in Australia as a trainee store manager, he has progressed through the business and has now been in Canada for 13 years as the head of the North American business. Brett's passion and enthusiasm for people development has allowed him to grow teams at all levels and achieve successful rapid growth of 86 Canadian stores within a very competitive retail landscape. Prior to Michael Hill, Brett served 6 years in the Royal Australian Navy where he learnt that discipline and execution of strategies are the keys to success and great leadership principles. He is married with 2 children, both of which have progressed to college and making careers of their own.

