

David Gelb

Global Head, Research and Development

Phone: +61 3 9288 6160
Mobile: +61 412 258 961
Email: dgelb@kpmg.com.au

Relevant experience

David is KPMG's Global R&D Tax Incentives Partner and has over 20 years' experience in advising on R&D tax issues. KPMG is the largest R&D adviser in Australia and has assisted many companies to obtain significant tax concessions.

David's global role has involved meetings with many tax and industry policy officials throughout the world in relation to R&D tax policy matters.

Specific experience includes:

- Providing advice to large companies in relation to R&D tax incentives and Government grants for R&D and innovation.
- Preparation and review of R&D tax incentive applications.
- Advising Governments on R&D policy issues.
- Undertaking global R&D reviews.

David leads a team with expertise in the R&D issues facing key sectors of the Australian economy. R&D industry experts are available to support the core team on this engagement in following sectors:

Industrial Markets

- Automotive
- Building Materials
- Chemicals
- Diversified Industrials
- Private Health and Aged Care
- Pharmaceuticals
- Transport

Consumer Markets

- Retail
- Food and Beverage
- Consumer Products
- Agribusiness

Information, Communications and Entertainment (ICE)

- Communications and Media
- Electronics, Software and Services

Qualifications

- Bachelor of Economics
- Bachelor of Laws
- Barrister and Solicitor of the Supreme Court of Victoria